Activity: Chocolate Treats Wordsearch

Wordsearches are a great way to pass the time, as well as being fun and engaging. Focusing on a single activity helps with your focus and memory, it's even better when it's fun! The act of tracing words letter-by-letter engages your brain, in the same way as learning new languages, bonding, and relaxing.

What better way to play it than with popular British chocolate brands?

The first Wordsearch puzzle was published in 1968 in the USA, in a small want-ad digest, the Selenby Digest (a want-ad digest is a small publication of advertisements). It was not long before it became well-known around the world.

Fun fact: Wordsearch puzzles go by a range of names such as Wonderword, Word Sleuth, Word Seek, Word Find, Word Search, or even Mystery Word.

What you will need:

- Printer
- A pencil or a pen

How to:

- There are lots of different ways you can approach a Wordsearch. It may be easiest to look for words horizontally, then vertically.
- You can also choose to look for the words one at a time. Focus on the first letter and then look for the second one vertically, horizontally, diagonally and in reverse. (yes, it is not so easy !)

Have fun ! Try our chocolate crossword if you haven't already.
